

Monday, June 16, 2003

Tip of the Day Categories » Walls and Ceilings

Dog-gone mold

How using a very clever pup...keeps from tearing your house up

In TV and movie episodes of "Lassie," there was a running theme. When this canine star sensed danger, she barked and warned her owners to beware -- something bad was lurking. Today, dogs help man in many ways -- such as tracking and finding things for search and rescue and police work. Dogs' noses are 100 times more sensitive than ours. Dogs are being put to new uses every day -- sniffing out mold is one of them. Where testing and detection often takes months, trained dogs can find hidden mold in a matter of minutes without tearing up ceilings, floors and walls. Think you might have a mold problem? Before you start tearing your house apart, check out "mold-dog".com or dial 1-(800)-MOLD-DOG. Man's best friend is now mold's worst enemy. For more tips, visit our Web site at onthehouse.com. And that's the On The House tip for today.

See more tips in the Walls and Ceilings category!

Sign up for the Tip of the Day mailing list and receive a new Tip of the Day every day! Our mailing lists are the easiest way to read our latest tips... and best of all, they're On The House!

Random Tip of the Day!

Aluminum Foil No-Nos

Covering oven cooking racks and floors "foils" coils, and trouble's in store.

View Printer-Friendly Version

Send this Article to a Friend

Listen to the Audio Clip!

- Home
- What's New
- Tip of the Day
- Weekly Project
- Q & A
- Features
- Radio Show
- About the Bros.
- Contests & Promotions
- Our Partners
- Our Remodeling Company
- Mailing Lists
- Contact Us
- Bookmark Us!

About the Bros. | Advertise | Contact Us | Privacy Policy

On The House Syndication © 1996-2003 All Rights Reserved.